27 Oct. 1975

Dear Harold,

I was very sorry to learn last night from Jerry Policoff that you had been hospitalized with phlebitis. I do hope you are better now and that your recovery will be swift and complete.

I have managed to stay well since July 1st. So far, so good.

Harold, I hear also that you are publishing Post Mortem in a few days. I take the liberty of enclosing a check for a copy.

As you may have heard already, Accessories will come out as a paperback next March (Random House / Vintage).

All my best wishes for your good health and for the success of Post Mortem. Please don't push yourself to write a reply to this letter unless and until you really feel well enough and have the time.

Much love,

Sylvia